Hi Everyone!!

We had such a wonderful ten days seeing all of our friends on the Orange Blossom Yarn Crawl!! Thank you all for participating. I wish everyone could have won a basket! Did you check out the pictures on Facebook? We really had fun! Tune in next year about the same time and we will do it again!

As you have probably heard, April 21 is Local Yarn Shop Day. This was put together by The National Needle Arts Association, of which we are members, to celebrate brick and mortar shops and encourage participation in shopping locally. We are all working very hard to keep our shops open in this world of the Internet. Of course, in our usual tradition, we will have prizes, special sales, champagne, wine, treats and a day of fun planned for you. If you are near Cocoa Village that day, stop in and say hello.

Jamie and Kaori have been arranging yarn in the shop and it looks terrific. Not to mention the great number of examples featuring many of the most current Ravelry patterns. I am absolutely amazed and thrilled at the number of garments the staff has knit for their classes on the schedule. I think Edwina knits in her sleep!!!

Remember, we are a teaching shop with 15 instructors available. If you can't find something on the schedule you would like to learn, please call the shop and ask for a private lesson. We will connect you with the right instructor. I have looked at class prices around the country and we are still one of the lowest in class pricing. Also, once you have taken and paid for a class with us, you are welcome to audit it again, at no charge. This is especially good for our beginner knitters class. In addition to the benefits of taking classes, we offer free ball winding and free help every day after 1PM.

When you come in, please welcome our newest staff member and talent extraordinaire, Jill Formaz. So many of you know her and of her talents; we are very lucky she has joined our team. Truly, we have a fantastically talented and strong team of instructors for you. Come take advantage as well as enjoy a beverage, good conversation and of course, CHOCOLATE!

We look forward to seeing each one of you soon!
